
Professional N/w

Posted by Shrihari - 2008/04/23 15:21

Hey guys!

Well... this is Shri, a new member of this site. Just was going through some of the forums and read the dog story (and of-course number of hits are prominent to it).

One thought flashed in mind. When we all are aware that Dombivli is a mass producer of professional across the verticals, still most of us do not know about each other (except few as).

So why don't we introduce ourselves here in this thread. So we can eventually form a strong Network within. As todays trends in industry are facing constant change one never know how we can help each other growing ones career and socially too it can help build a strong bond.

Personally I am active member on couple of professional N/w sites which are accessed by professionals (like you) from different verticals across the globe and trust me guys it helps a lot.

The gist here is not only to know each other on professional front but probably to build a strong social bond (a hand in hand makes chain)

Let me initiate. My introduction. (just a small description and not a resume)

Name : Shrihari Behere
E-mail : shrihari.behere@gmail.com

Started my career in media (as a designer) spanning from advertising industry through web industry. In here was responsible from conceptualization to project management.
At this juncture placed as Manager Business Development (US) with an IT company, involved in Network Security.

Feel free to reach me on ma email.

Look forward to have an active response to this thread from all you vibrant and well-read fellas around (not just virtually but with physical presence some day at week-end eventually)

=====

Re:Professional N/w

Posted by kaushal - 2008/04/23 20:28

Hi Shirhari,

Nice that you started this thread.
Let me introduce me first.

I am a Mechanical Eng., there after have experience working in Whirlpool India. Later I shifted to business Consulting, have worked for i-maritime Consulting and Cushman and Wakefield as Infrastructure consultant. Currently studying MBA from XLRI Jamshedpur.

Btw, I also manage this forum. :D

Feel free to join my professional network at LinkedIn

Kaushal

=====

Re:Professional N/w

Posted by Shrihari - 2008/04/24 06:54

Dear Kaushal

Many thanks for your reply. I am sending you the invite on linked-in. Hope would you accept it.

Actually it was very rude and abrupt to insist couple of times asking for the reply in the thread. But had to do it that in todays packed schedule people are barely interested replying to any thread or starting up any activity. Or it might be the lack of time and interest.

But anyways not only depending upon the response I get through this I am physically looking forward for a union of Professionals in and around dombivli. Lets see how things move forward.

Again many thanks for your not. (unfortunately you have not mentioned your contact co-ordinates anywhere.)

Best Regards
Shrihari

=====

Re:Professional N/w

Posted by Donna - 2008/05/11 11:12

Hi all,

am new to dombivli forum, ebenothough I joined long back- this is my first reply.

My name is donna; I work as a science editor in a company that provides language services;
At present , our company is looking out for english language editors - those who are interested please forward your resume to donnam@cactusglobal.com

Our company's website

www.cactusglobal.com

=====